

Allergies & Ingredients

Eden's Little Bakery takes allergens very seriously. We do our best to avoid cross contamination during our food production and general handling.

Although we are extremely careful to prevent cross contamination, operating a micro bakery means using a small kitchen space and therefore having a small risk of traces of allergens present in all our products. If you are unsure of the allergen contained in certain products, please contact us by email.

hello@edenslittlebakery.co.uk
